- Today, Governor Gavin Newsom announced his plan for learning and safe schools ahead of the 2020–2021 school year, as the California Department of Public Health issued a framework for when and how schools should reopen for in-person instruction. The Governor’s plan centers on five key areas:
  - Safe in-person school based on local health data
  - Strong mask requirements for anyone in the school
  - Physical distancing requirements & other adaptations
  - Regular testing and dedicated contact tracing for outbreaks at schools
  - Rigorous distance learning

- Los Angeles County will adhere to the California Department of Public Health’s (CDPH) directive that schools in 32 counties on the State’s monitoring list, including Los Angeles County, cannot resume in-person learning next month
  - The state order allows superintendents to submit school district waiver requests to reopen elementary schools for approval by the local health officer only after reviewing local epidemiological data and intervention strategies, and in consultation with CDPH
  - For schools to reopen their campuses, Los Angeles County will have to remain off the monitoring list for 14 consecutive days. Counties are on the monitoring list because they have not achieved more than 150 tests per day per 100,000 people, or have more than 100 cases per 1,000 residents, or have case positivity rates higher than 8%, or have a 10% or more increase in hospitalizations over the past three days, or less than 20% of ICU beds are open, or less than 25% of ventilators are available
